

Finding the “Warm and Fuzzy” of Christmas

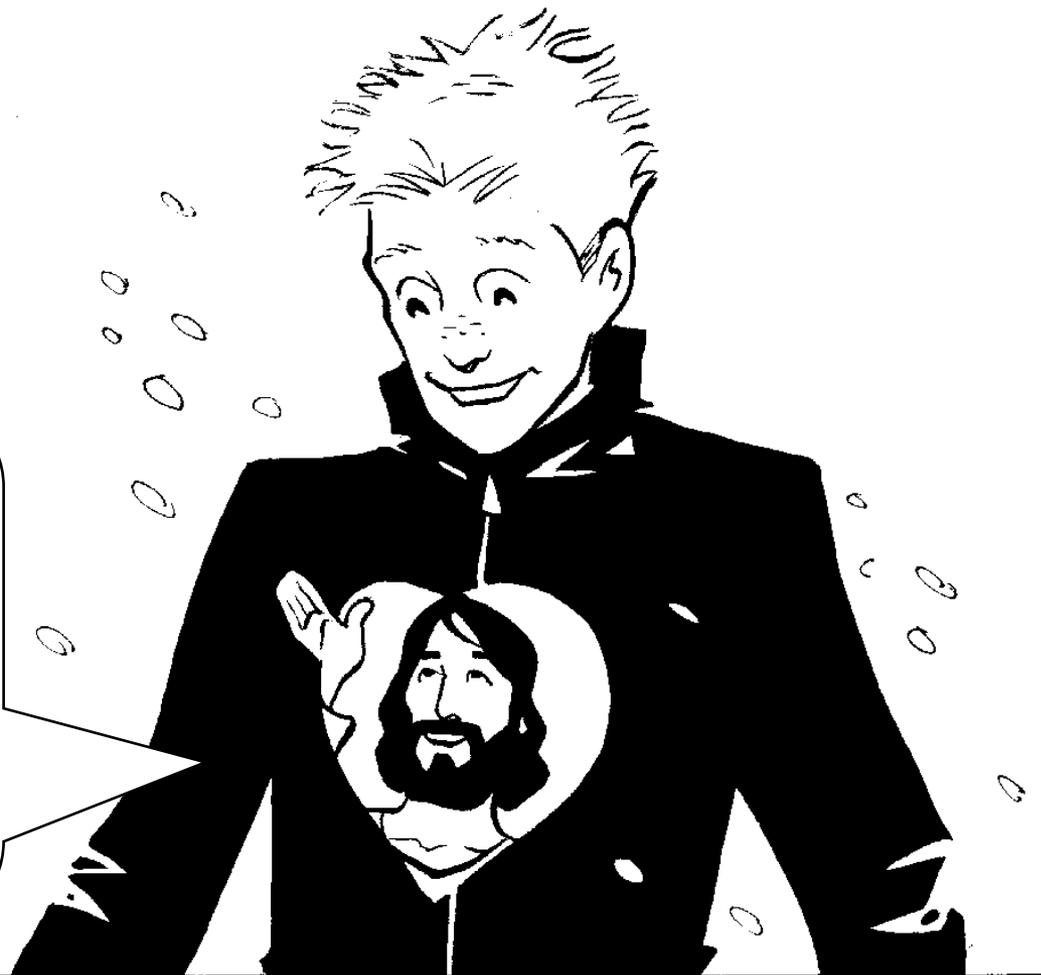

I understand what you're up against during the Christmas season. You're feeling dry, and you're wondering where the "Christmas spirit" has gone and run off to.

You think of movies or of Christmas stories with portrayals of Christmas days filled with the “warm and fuzzies” that seem to be an integral part of the Christmas season. But right now you feel zero warmth and fuzziness. You wish you had it, because you don't want to feel draggy during this time of year that is supposed to be a celebration of joy.

You're trying so hard to look for Christmas in the things that surround you. Perhaps you look for it in the blinking lights, storefront decorations, Christmas carols, eggnog, and whatnot, and then if any of those things are missing, or if they don't strike the right note in your heart, you feel like this really can't be what Christmas is about. You're right, because you're looking for the spirit of Christmas in the wrong places!

If you're looking for Christmas spirit, look no further than your own spirit, because as My child, as one who is saved and who knows Me, you are a carrier, a messenger, an ambassador of Christmas spirit. Instead of looking outward for Christmas spirit, look inward, because the spirit of Christmas is in you—it's Me in you!

This is where it starts. More than decorating a tree or the house, if you adorn your spirit with joy, peace, longsuffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness, and temperance, people will be drawn to you as they would be to the best, most brightly lit Christmas tree they've ever seen. They'll recognize in you true Christmas joy, the real reason for the season. And the fuzziness of Christmas will come with the joy of sharing My love with others.

Meet the Man

If you haven't yet met Jesus or received His forgiveness and gift of eternal life, you can right now by praying the following:

Thank You, Jesus, for paying the price for my mistakes and wrongs, so I can be forgiven. I ask You now, dear Jesus, to please come into my heart, forgive me, and give me Your gift of eternal life. Amen.
